FINRA Foundation Military Spouse Fellowship Program

The FINRA Foundation Military Spouse Fellowship Program gives military spouses the opportunity to earn a career-enhancing credential—the Accredited Financial Counselor[®] certificate—while providing financial counseling and education to the military community. The fellowship covers the costs associated with completing the AFC[®] training and testing.

Created in 2006, the program is administered in partnership with the Association for Financial Counseling and Planning Education[®] (AFCPE[®]) and the National Military Family Association (NMFA). To date, the FINRA Foundation has awarded more than 1,200 Military Spouse Fellowships—and participants have logged hundreds of thousands of hours of service back to the military community.

Now Accepting Applications for the 2013 Military Spouse Fellowships

Military spouses have until March 31 to apply. The program helps military spouses foster their own careers and maintain Financial Readiness in Military Communities, and the fellowship covers the costs associated with completing training and testing for certification as an Accredited Financial Counselor[®] (AFC[®]).
